

I support Video Assisted Speech-to-Speech. As a Speech Language Pathologist, I work with several individuals who are successful functional communicators but are nonverbal. This offers an extremely viable and important method to maintain life in a social world and communicate key and important information. Also, VID-STS can provide access to emergency services not available to many potential users now.